Speaking of inverters..... I'm in the Virgin Islands boating around the islands on a 51" Power Cat. The specs said it should have a 2000W Inverter but surprisingly it does not. The fridges are 120V / 12V so I guess they didn't install an inverter. It does have 3 A/C units so the generator is getting a serious workout anyway.

Saint Thomas would be my choice to live on, unless I could afford Saint John. While here be sure to visit St John, as the proximity from St Thomas is a huge appeal. StX is isolated but has beautiful spots like Sandy Point and Buck Island. If power is a major concern, you could have a backup power station with DC inverters and solar.

I had solar installed a few years ago and am now considering adding a battery. We have 7.3 kW system with a SMA -40 inverter (Sunny Boy 7.0-US). If I add a battery, I want the battery to be able to charge from solar when the grid goes down. It's unclear to me if I need a SMA Sunny Boy Storage (Battery Inverter) or a Sunny Island.

Usable in split-phase with 2 or 4 inverters (up to 23kW load) or in 208V Wye three-phase systems with 3 inverters (up to 17.3 kW load).
